THE PACIFIC Commercial Advertiser.

SATURDAY, JULY 4.

A New Volume. PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER commences. Those whose subscriptions have expired are respectfully requested to renew and continue the same; and those who have never subscribed are solicited to do so. All who pay in advance, or before July 31, will receive, free of charge, the AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, as per special notice accompanying this issue.

We would call the attention of our business men to the fact that this paper has the largest and most extensive circulation of any in the Pacific. There is not a store or settlement in this group, and hardly any throughout the Pacific ed those business men who have advertised most liberally, is the best proof as to its paying.

But advertising is of benefit to others than business men. Any person who has a house, a lot of land, a horse, a carriage or anything else to sell, or who wants to buy, hire or lease, can, by this means, make known his wish to a thousand persons at once, and among them may find an applicant or make a bargain he had not dreamed of. To advertise is the cheapest and quickest way of buying or selling to advantage.

In this age, a newspaper has become an absolute necessity to every man who attempts to keep up with the times, -as necessary as his tea, bread, butter or meat. There are some who affect to species, content to live from hand to mouth, with- else may do as he pleases. out ambition to get ahead, to improve their own condition or that of their children, and finally they drop off from the stage of life, without any Arrival of the "D. island and on the passage hither. Some exceptions having been taken to our statement last week about Capt. Pease's designs, we will add that it was only given on what appeared to be Pease's principal that in all business transactions, no fault has been found with him, and that letters from him in Shanghae, whither he was sent on business, fully disprove the reports regarding him received by the schooner, as published by us last week, and that he has acted in good faith in business matconfirm us in the belief that there has been a vast deal of rascality practiced throughout the Micronesia group by various parties, and if the whole story were told, it would show that this cocoanut oil trade as now carried on is little else than a system of pillage, in which the most daring and reckless are considered

A BEAUTIFUL CHARL.-We have received from the publisher, Justus Perthes, of Gotha, Germany, a very fine map of the World on Mercator's projection, mounted on canvas and rollers, in size about four by five feet, and published in 1868. It consequently embraces the latest surveys, and has, in addition to the usual data, the tracks of all the principal steam With this number, VOLUME THIRTEEN of the lines, prevailing winds and tides, ice belts in the Arctic and Antarctic Seas, and is altogether the most perfect and comprehensive map of the world we have ever seen. Its small size is also a recommendation. A number of copies of this chart have been ordered, and they will soon be for sale here, of which due notice will be given.

NEGLIGENCE.-A portion of the mail taken over from this port to San Francisco by the R. W. Wood was not delivered till a few days before her departure. The fine for not promptly delivering all mails and letters is 500 dollars. There can be no excuse whatever for not promptly delivering all mail matter, for the Capt. being the only responsible party, should know of every bag, package or parcel intended for Ocean, where it is not regularly taken and pe- the post office, and should himself take special care of rused. No better medium for advertising can be the same. It is no excuse to say that the mate, cook desired, and the uniform success that has attend- or steward had charge of them. They have no business with them, except to receive and pass them immediately to the master, and on every well-regulated vessel this rule is enforced.

The June magazines were received by the last packet. In Harper's for that month will be found a most interesting account of President Lincoln's first trip to Washington, when he went to be inaugurated in 1861, showing how narrowly he escaped assassination at Baltimore. -

The vote was then taken on the third article, with the same result. Mr. Williams then moved that the Senate, sitting as a Court, do now adjourned sine die, which was agreed to by 34 to 16. Those voting nay were Messrs. Bayard, Buckalew, Davis, Doolittle, Fowler, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, McCreery, Norton, Patterson, Ross, Saulsbury, Trumbull and

Before announcing the vote the Chief Justice said if there were no objections the clerk would be directed to enter judgment of acquittal on the second, third and eleventh articles, which was done. The Chief Justice then declared the Senate, sit-sing as a High Court of Impeachment, for the trial of Andrew Johnson, to stand adjourned without day, without any perceptible manifestation of feel-ing on the part of the spectators. The members of the House then returned to their Chamber.

Several Senators made brief personal explanations in regard to newspaper stories, whereupon the Senate adjourned.

Gen. Grant and his Nomination. Washington, May 29 .- The Committee appoint by the National Convention to inform Grant and colfax of their nomination performed that duty at Grant's residence about nine o'clock this evening. About two hundred persons were present, including delegates to the Convention, members of Congress, ladies, members of Grant's staff, etc. Gov-bidders. ernor Hawley in a brief address presented the record of the proceedings of the Convention, and tendered Grant the nomination.

General Grant replied as follows:

It is said her offspring is living, and if he or she lives to attain the age of 21 years an enormous fortune will be in waiting. The case has been so long in court, and the documents concerning it have accumulated to such an extent that it has been compared to the Schleswig-Holstein question, which only one man ever understood and he unfortunately died after he had thoroughly informed himself on the subject. From a tangled mass of testimony and arguments it appears that Edward M. Robinson, the father of Hattie, who died in June, 1860, left a fortune of of $30,000 in legacies to servants and friends went to her. Her aunt, Sylvia Ann Howland, by the contested will, left Hattle $1,100,000, which her heir will get in any event, whether the present suit is won or lost. If lost, the whole of the aunt's formaking a total of $8,500,000. As money at interest doubles every ten years or so, this infant, if it lives to be 21 years of age, will be worth $35,000,000.

LIVERPOOL, June 4 .- John Bright was entertained this morning at breakfast by prominent members of the Liberal party. Bright made a powerful speech. After reviewing the policy of the various Tory Administrations up to the present time on the question of the Irish Church, he drew a strong contrast between the course of the present Premier and that of Mr. Gladstone in dealing with this matter. He advised the Liberals to exert all their strength to carry the next Parliamentary election, and with great earnestness exhorted the cople to support the Liberal party, declaring that justing the dissensions in Ireland, and in perfecting the union with England.

London, June 5 .- In the House of Commons this evening, an amendment to the Suspensory bill was offered, placing the tenure-of-office under the Maynooth College grant on the same basis as livings in the Irish Church. The amendment was opposed as destructive, and not in accordance with the character of the bill under consideration. It was rejected. The House then voted in favor of permitting new appointments to be made to Maynooth College. The Suspension bill was then passed in Committee of the Whole. The result was received with cheers.

tralian Colonies. The universal manifestations of loyalty to the Queen, and attachment to her person and throne, have ere this been made known to Her Majesty, and cannot fail to have given her the liveliest pleasure. I must here, however, allude to the unfortunate occurrence connected with myself, which marred your festivities and cast a temporary gloom over the community. I sincerely regret, on your part, that there should have been any our incident during my sojourn amongst you which should have detracted from the general satisfaction, which I believe, my visit to Australia has given. The event, however, cannot in any degree shake my conviction of the loyalty of the Colonists at large, nor Her Majesty's confidence in her Australian subjects. Indeed, the meetings, and expressions of sertiments which have been called forth by the recent attempt on my life, will show their fellow-subjects at home, and the world at large, they not on!" have loyalty, but affection for their Queen and her family. If there granted the necessary authority for the establishis any disaffection, tending to disloyalty, amongst any section of the community, in any portion of Her Majesty's dominions, it will be the duty of the Government to put it down; and I am certain that here it will receive every support from all classes. Through the merciful interposition of Providence, the injury I received was but slight, and I believe no further evil consequences are to be anticipated from the wound; it has, however, been considered Napier's army state that the English are still evac-uating Abyssinia. A column passed Senate the some time, and therefore decided that it would be last post en route. The rainy season had set in most advisable for me to return home direct. It is with great violence. The streams were swollen, a great disappointment for me not to be able to visit New Zealand, and I am afraid it will also very much disappoint the people there. In thanking you once more for your kindness to me during my visit, I must tell you how much I have enjoyed it, and regret that it comes to an end to-day. Before I conclude, I will ask you to join me in a toast. I propose "Prosperity to the Colony of New South Wales;" and as this is the last opportunity I shall have of addressing an assembly of Australians, I beg to couple with the toast, "Prosperity to all the Australian Colonies." WILLIAM VIAL .- Prince Alfred sent for Mr. Vial, ple to support the Liberal party, declaring that success of its policy was the only means of adpresented him with a splendid gold watch and chain, in token of the presence of mind which Mr.
